(Special to The Times-Dispatch).

AGEE, NELSON COUNTY, VA., August II.—The guests of Buffaie Ridge Springs had the pleasure of attending a delight-rule entertainment given by a successful actor, formerly of Virginia. Mr. Seth Cabell Hailsey, of New York, a nephew of Senator Daniel.

Mr. Halsey is a member of the Digby Bell Company, now presenting the "Education of Mr. Pipp."

He was ably assisted by Mrs. Walter Shafer, of Selma, Ala.; Mrs. Lambert, Mrs. Moon, Mrs. Isbell, Miss Louise Goodman, Mr. James Martin, Mr. Robin Clark, Mr. Carl Percival, of Lynchburg; Mr. Emmet Hudson and Miss Annie Wills, of Nelson county.

Plane music was furnished by Mrs. Shackleford, so well known to Richmond people. Miss Chilborne and Messrs. G. M. and C. B. Chilborne and Messrs. G. M. and C. B. Chilborne also rendered delightful music on the plane, mandolin and vicility, the violin used being 150 years old, historical, and belonging to Mrs. Shackleford. (Special to The Times-Dispatch.)
AGEE, NELSON COUNTY, VA., August

Mr. Halsey gave an extract from "Othel 10" as Sir Henry Irving interprets it, having learned it from Sir Henry. He also gave the scene between Shylock and Antonic, impressing each character so claverly one nd it hard to believe it was the same man. In pleasing contrast to Shakespears was a one act play ontitled "Hector"; Mr. Halsey taking the leading part of Mr. Long, Mrs. Shafer as Mrs. Long, Mrs. Moon as Fannie, Mrs. Lambert as Augusta, while little Miss Goodman was messenger boy, Mr. Martn as Watson, Mr. Percival as Einstein, and Mr. Clauk as Oscar, friends and employes of the Longs.

Mr. Percival as Einstein, and Mr. Clark as Oscar, friends and employes of the Longs.

Mr. Halsey and Mrs. Aubrey Isbell also gave one scene from the play "Because I Love You."

Many people from the county attended, as this is the first opportunity they have ever had of sceing their fellow countryman in character.

After the play was over, ice cream and cake were served on the lawn beneath the glow of Japanese lanterns, after which dancing was indulged in until the wee sma' hours of the morning.

Miss Elizabeth Venable, of Jackson-ville, Fla., having spent a couple of months here, has gone to Farmville, Va., for a stay with relatives before returning to her Southern home.

CAMP RICHMOND IS NOW HISTORY

Richmond Boys Made a Good Impression on the Good Mountain People.

Charlottesville Woolen Mills, Near Charlottesville, Va., Aug. 11, 1906.

Near Charlottesville, Va., Aug. 11, 1906. Editor of The Times-Dispatch:

"Camp Richmond" for 1906 has passed into history, but the writer, who was a close observer of its various features and incidents while the boys sejourned in our midst, feels that its entourage should have more than the passing notice it has thus far received at the hands of the

thus far received at the hands of the press.

The spot selected for its temporary domicile was in an open field on the northwest side of Monticello Mountain, but immediately adjacent to the lovely woods. From it, the view of hills and vulleys, including the little city of Charlottesville and the University of Virginia, and extending to the Blue Ridge Mountains—a distance of over twenty miles—is superb. Near by, and nestling in the woods, is what is locally called the "Cool Spring," which bursts from the mountain side with its cold, sparkling, lifegiving waters. At the foot of the mountain flows the Rivanna River, sometimes beautifully clear, sometimes not, but always inviting to its cool, shady banks, adorned with tall sycamores and willows.

The coming of the boys was preceded

The coming of the boys was pleased by the preparatory corps of older heads, led by the physical director, Mr. Reithard, who were soon on the ground with their wagons loaded with camp equipage, and, with the skill of veterans, had quickly erected their village of tents. The day following brought the dear boys, with all their youthful exuberance and happiness, and yet, with that orderly mien which should always characterize everything done in the name of Christ—for it should be remembered that these youth are a contingent of the Junior Young Men's Christian Association of your city.

The writer cannot speak of his own personal knowledge of the everyday details of the camp life, but he can say, and delights to say that during the ten days spent by them in our midst there was not one single incident occurring prejudicial to the good name of the Juniors. So far as an outsider could observe, they were a hand of young gentlemen, under absolute control of their elders, and yet exercising all the individual liberty conducive to happiness and consistent with the necessary discipline which makes for physical and moral upbuilding. Throughout the entire body of nearly forty boys there seemed to be not only no rebellious spirit, but the very reverse—a desire to acquir thouselves as young gentlemen, and with loving obedience to the wisine of the excellent Christian leaders in whose hands they were entrusted. Your correspondent met the boys frequently, was somewhat intimate with many of them, and without exception they expressed themselves as being charmed with the location of the camp; with the abundant provision made for the wants of the linner man—a very important part of the program with a boy; with the abundant provision made for the wants of the linner man—a very important part of the program with a boy; with the opportunity for seeing the mountain country and its people is educational, but over and above all else I was impressed with the fact that all these were regarded by the leaders as secondary to the higher motive
